The Dairy.
As an article of profit for the farmer, the dairy is equalled by few, excelled by none. It is far in advance of grain-raising; as it is much more certain and not exhaustive of the soil. Still it requires strict attention and close management. The surest way for a new beginner to obtain a good stock of cows, is to go to a large dairyman, and by paying a good round price, have the privilege of selecting the required number. In this way he will obtain the best stock, whereas if he buys them one at a place he will be very apt to get a poor animal, as it is human nature to sell the poorest. If he has not means to adopt this method, the next best way is to engage of an honorable man the required number of heifer calves. To have a good pasture is essential. A mixture of timothy and clover is the best grass. The stock should have plenty of clear, running water, not swampy settlements. A few shade trees in the lot will conduce very much to comfort in hot days. Have a trough under cover filled with salt, and give your cows free access to it; it improves the butter and cheese much more than a casual observer would imagine. Many farmers are in the habit of scattering salt on the ground about once a week, half of which is wasted, and the rest eaten with dirt and roots. As to the details of cheese-making it would be useless to give them. It requires practical illustrations and practice. It is considered more profitable than butter-making, especially in warm weather. When butter is made, an ice house well filled is almost indispensable. A small piece should be placed in each vessel of milk, and a larger quantity in the cream when churning. The best churn that I have used is the common barrel churn; it is simply a barrel of oak with three of the staves projecting in the inside about four inches. It is placed on friction rollers requiring very little labor to turn it. There is no waste of cream, and the butter can be washed without removing it. I generally wash the butter in three waters, salt, and set it away until the next day, then work it again and pack in tubs. Cream rises the best when the milk is set above ground. A cool, dry room, on the north side of a building, with shade trees, if possible, is much superior to a damp cellar. There should be plenty of air, and the utensils should be kept clean and sweet.—Dollar Newspaper.

Seeding Corn Land to Grass.
One of the real progressive farmers of Illinois—"one who does not fear such truths as Solon Robinson told the farmers in his address at Hartford"—writes of his success with a piece of surface-drained swamp land, which was too wet to plow in the spring, in seeding it with grass among the corn in the fall. He says: Last year, while thinking the matter over, and wondering whether it would not do to sow grass seed among the corn, an article appeared in the Daily Tribune recommending it. This decided the matter, and the men were set to work about the middle of August, or a little before, with garden rakes to smooth the rough places, and prepare the ground for seed. We then sowed liberally with timothy. When the proper time came we cut the corn up at the surface, as usual. In the spring we rolled the ground while rather soft, and have seldom had fields left in smoother and better condition for the mowing machine. The seed took remarkably well, and produced this year a fine crop of excellent hay. That editorial was worth the cost of the Daily Tribune for five years. Thinking that others might possibly profit by this experiment, I venture to give it to your readers.

Pears—The Bartlett.
A correspondent, residing in a neighboring town, and having a very small lot asks us what single pear shall be planted to occupy the room which he has to spare? We answer without hesitation, the Bartlett. For general cultivation, it is in our judgment, incomparably the best, and second only to the Seckel, in quality. It is both an early and a constant bearer and where the tree is taken the least care of, the fruit is of the most uniform size of any pear within our knowledge. On a small dwarf tree, this season, we raised thirty two pears, all of large, uniform size—all perfect—and all remained on the tree until the period of picking. So with several standard grafts, they were all loaded with fruit, with scarcely a small or imperfect pear and they all matured.

If any one was to ask us what six pears to cultivate, the answer would promptly be: 1. Bloodgood; 2. Seckel; 3. Bartlett; 4. Bell Lucrative; 5. Baerre Dieh; 6. Lawrence.

Full Ploughing.
Full plowing is not advantageous when the soil is thin and exposed to washing by ordinary rains or when heaved or loosened by frost; not if the ground is wet and springy, and not if it is a blowing sand, unless you can put a crop of rye on this fall. Under almost all other circumstances we believe full plowing may be advantageous; certainly it is advisable on clay lands, or on heavy clay or gravelly loam, unless the land is apt to suffer from drought, and you wish to turn under a fresh sward in May or June, as a sort of reservoir of moisture for some crop during the summer. In this case even it is much more desirable to plow rye now and turn under the crop and plant upon it.

PEACH CREAM.—Get fine, soft, quite ripe peaches, peel them, take out the stones and then place them in a bowl—sprinkle some sugar on, and chop them small with a silver spoon; if the peaches are ripe they will become a soft pulp, add as much milk or cream as you have of the first; then add more sugar and freeze it.

MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS
Above we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropist has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country; it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depend upon this vital fluid.
When the various passages become clogged, and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action, becomes thick, corrupted, and diseased; thus causing all pains, sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted, our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's Garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer parts of the corruption which the blood contains. The second is a powerful purgative, that opens and unblocks the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner, performs its duty in throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives double ease and strength to the kidneys; thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out profitably by the urinary or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood; the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the other outlets, are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.
From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, but become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurities, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfectly healthy; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.
The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the affected parts, and which will open the natural passage for the disease to be cast out; hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged, and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing a disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's PILLS have added to themselves victory upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought, as it were, within a step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. They would do they give immediate ease and strength, and testify that the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.
Sold by Thomas Devine, Ebersburg, and by Medicine Dealers generally throughout the County. B. Luke Johnson, successor to A. J. White & Co., No. 59 Leonard St., N.
